Let's learn: Sound/spelling pattern*Clever Cat and Harry Hat Man

Show the ch PCC picture side and ask, What does Clever Cat seem to be doing? Yes, she's sneezing! Let's find out why. Show the ch story which explains her sneezes on Phonics Online or the Beyond ABC book.

Push the plain letters forward a few times as everyone does the sneeze catching action and says "/ch/ /ch/..." (This should be a whispered sound so make sure no one adds an "uh" sound!)

Phonemic Awareness and Language Development

Show the scene again and ask children to name as many things as they can see with the /ch/ sound (these items can be clicked on, or, if using the book there is a complete list at the back).

Song

Play the ch song from Phonics Online and sing along (lyrics ↓). You may want to let several pairs of children role-play the song as everyone else sings.

Phonics Online or Beyond ABC book

Blending and segmenting

Make some of the words below with PCCs or with the Phonics Online Word Builder tool and guide children in using the Roller Coaster Trick to blend them.

Word Bank - ch words

chat	chap	chip	chop	chin	check	chest
chick	chicks	much	such	lunch

Blending with tch

Some words that end with the /ch/ sounds are spelled a bit differently. Let's stretch and segment the word catch. "/c/ /ă/ /ch/". Temporarily spell the word this way: cach. That's how it sounds, but in quite a few words when we hear /ch/ at the end, Talking Tess is going to be right there, too. Change the word to catch. She doesn't make a sound. For once she's not talking at all! I wonder... do you think she could be quietly reminding Clever Cat to "catch" her sneeze so she doesn't spread any germs, or maybe she is just silently trying to toss a tissue to Clever Cat? Let's read some other words with this silent Talking Tess.

Word Bank - tch words

catch	ditch	fetch	match	patch	pitch	witch
catches	ditches	fetches	matches	patches	itches	witches

Talk about base words and suffixes.

Tricky Words:

Fluency and comprehension

Phonics Readers - Blue Series 1: Check on the chicks!

In this story, Firefighter Fred is helping out at Forest Farm. This is a good story for using the strategy of covering each picture until after children read the sentence. The children then predict what they will see.

Discussion Use this story to talk about the functions of farms. Why are there chicks here and bales of hay? etc.

When Clever Cat sits next to Harry Hat Man, his hairy hat tickles her nose and she almost always sneezes.

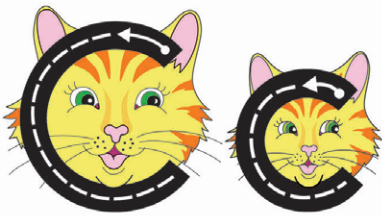

chick   chin   chop

Clever Cat belongs to Harry Hat Man. He looks after her well and she loves him. But she has one problem. As soon as she finds herself next to him in a word, she can't make her usual 'c...' sound because his hairy hat makes her nose tickle. So all you can hear when these two are together is Clever Cat's little sneezing sound, 'ch...'.

Clever Cat was calmly playing chess in the chicken, but then the clock chimed and Harry came hopping in to get his lunchch. He was horrified to see chicks and a chicken on a chair, so he's been trying to chase them out. The trouble is, all that charging about has made Clever Cat start sneezing 'ch' again! Let's help Harry choose his lunchch so he can hop off again. There's some Chinese food, some chease and some chunks of chocolate. There are some Cherries and a cherry cake too. Which ch would you choose for your lunch?

C c - Clever Cat

1. Trace over Clever Cat's letter shapes and say her sound.

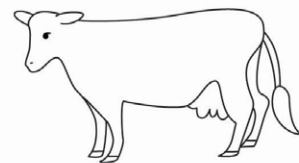

2. Write over the dotted letters. Then complete the lines.

Two rows of handwriting practice lines. Each row contains two dotted uppercase 'C' and two dotted lowercase 'c' for tracing, followed by blank space for independent writing. Blue arrows indicate the counter-clockwise stroke direction for each letter.

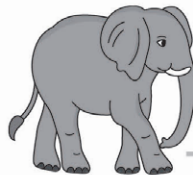

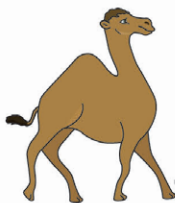

3. Colour the pictures that start with Clever Cat's sound.
